MARINE CORPS LEAGUE TREASURE VALLEY DETACHMENT #878-Edition 4-JUNE 2012 BOISE, IDAHO

Detachment Commandant Gary Randel

After our meeting on Thursday June 21st, which I encourage you to attend we will not have a business meeting until September, but we will not be inactive during July and August. We are examining the possibility of participating in the Caldwell 4th of July Parade, which will actually take place on the 4th, and not the following weekend; and in August we will host a BBQ for Company C, 4th Tank Battalion and that will concurrently honor our Korean War veterans. 2012 is the 60th anniversary of the beginning of the Korean War. Because of the Company C/ Korean War veterans' BBQ, our detachment summer picnic is now planned for September, which I think will work out well because the weather will still be warm. To learn more about these events attend the business meeting on June 21st.

The detachment's bylaw review committee has worked diligently on our bylaw revision project since October 2011, and has produced a nearly complete revision. There is one final "tweak" being worked, which means that that at this moment in time we do not plan to distribute the newly revised bylaws for detachment member reviews until September. Some of the important and useful changes include references in most sections to corresponding national and department bylaws, an index, and a cross reference section. These features will facilitate the usefulness and as we say these days, the "friendliness" of our bylaws.

The June 21st business meeting will include a presentation by a local Boy Scout who is seeking detachment support for his Eagle Scout project. The project involves an enhancement of the landscaping at the main entrance to the Veterans Cemetery. We will also discuss the possibility of accepting the donation of a trailer that would replace the current Coffee Wagon and also serve as a storage place for most of the detachment's property. That property is currently stored in the garages of various members. Several other important actions will be discussed during the June 21st meeting including providing an MCL information/recruiting table at the July 7th picnic for the Patriot Guard motorcycle club at Stan Meholchick's Juniper Ranch. This event is an initiative of Stan Meholchick to recognize the contributions to veterans and their families by the Patriot Guards and other motorcycle clubs. Also, our fundraising chairman, Arnie Strawn, will present information on that status of our fundraising efforts to include a concept plan to hold a raffle for an Alaskan cruise. This would be an ambitious project that can only happen if the detachment gets behind the ticket selling requirement. Our small detachment has a lot going on, so please attend the June business meeting on Thursday June 21st to have your say and to learn how you can contribute to the detachment's success.

FROM AROUND THE CORPS

HONOR DEDICATION AND COURAGE

Before 9/11, Burma native Than Naing served fast food. Ever since the terror attacks, he's served the United States.

Spurred into action in 2001 by the sight of the World Trade Center towers falling, Naing overcame daunting odds to become a Marine and has since been wounded fighting in both Iraq and Afghanistan and earned the elite fighting corps' Marine of the Year award. He became a citizen in 2007, recently earned his college degree and is working toward his next one, all while proudly serving in the military and earning the admiration of his commanding officers.

"I'm a U.S. citizen and I felt like I needed to do something for this country," the soft-spoken war veteran said. "That's what being a citizen is all about."

Naing was 23 when his mother won a green card lottery. Although she and the rest of the family stayed behind, Naing sprang at the chance to start a new life in America.

Speaking no English and knowing no one, he moved to New York City in 2000. He was working at a Queens McDonald's when Al Qaeda terrorists flew planes into the World Trade Center, and he felt the pain and anger of his fellow New Yorkers. He asked neighbors how he could fight for America, and they told him to join the Marines.

"I went to a recruiting station a week later to join," he said. "I saw what happened on the television and I felt terrible. I had to help. I had to do something."

The Marines weren't ready for their newest volunteer, because he wasn't fluent in English. But the recruiter saw something in the earnest immigrant and agreed to help him learn the language skills he needed to pass the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery. Working nightly for an entire year, they got Naing through the exam. By May 2004, Naing shipped out for boot camp at Parris Island in South Carolina.

Pfc. Naing soon found himself in Iraq, patrolling the streets of Fallujah. It was there that he learned in 2006 that his mother had died. Believing he was needed on duty, he didn't even tell his commanding officers. Click on the below link to read the rest of the story.

In his own words

As a citizen of the United States of America, I believe that I have a responsibility to protect the country. I have freedom of choice; I have responsibility for my individual freedom and we are equal in the America. I remember that when 9/11 happened; I was not a citizen yet. But this is the country I live in and I realized that I had to do something for this country to repay what I owed. So I decided to join the Marine Corps. I felt that that was a right thing to do. America not only gives me freedom but also my dignity.

All the Marines and sailors are my brothers. We all been through all the training and hardship. We protect each other and we respect each other. We came from different backgrounds and different families, but we love each other.

The United States Marine Corps gave me leadership skills, experience and the ability to make difficult decisions in stressful situations. I like to say I was "born in Burma, but made in U.S.A."

President Proclaims 50th Anniversary of the Vietnam War

WASHINGTON, May 25, 2012 - In a proclamation issued today, President Barack Obama urged Americans to remember the courage and sacrifice of U.S. military members who served during the Vietnam War, and he declared May 28, 2012, through November 11, 2025, as the Commemoration of the 50th Anniversary of the Vietnam War.

In his proclamation, Obama called upon federal, state, and local officials "to honor our Vietnam veterans, our fallen, our wounded, those unaccounted for, our former prisoners of war, their families, and all who served with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and activities" during the 13-year commemoration.

"As we observe the 50th anniversary of the Vietnam War, we reflect with solemn reverence upon the valor of a generation that served with honor," Obama said in his proclamation. "We pay tribute to the more than 3 million servicemen and women who left their families to serve bravely, a world away from everything they knew and everyone they loved

"From Ia Drang to Khe Sanh, from Hue to Saigon and countless villages in between, they pushed through jungles and rice paddies, heat and monsoon, fighting heroically to protect the ideals we hold dear as Americans," the president continued. "Through more than a decade of combat, over air, land, and sea, these proud Americans upheld the highest traditions of our armed forces."

Today, grateful Americans "honor more than 58,000 patriots -- their names etched in black granite -- who sacrificed all they had and all they would ever know," Obama said. "We draw inspiration from the heroes who suffered unspeakably as prisoners of war, yet who returned home with their heads held high. We pledge to keep faith with those who were wounded and still carry the scars of war, seen and unseen. With more than 1,600 of our service members still among the missing, we pledge as a nation to do everything in our power to bring these patriots home.

"In the reflection of The Wall," he continued, "we see the military family members and veterans who carry a pain that may never fade. May they find peace in knowing their loved ones endure, not only in medals and memories, but in the hearts of all Americans, who are forever grateful for their service, valor, and sacrifice."

Obama urged citizens to "renew our sacred commitment to those who answered our country's call in Vietnam and those who awaited their safe return."

Beginning on Memorial Day, May 28, 2012, he said, the federal government will partner with local governments, private organizations, and communities across America to participate in the Commemoration of the 50th Anniversary of the Vietnam War.

The 13-year commemoration, he added, will "honor and give thanks to a generation of proud Americans who saw our country through one of the most challenging missions we have ever faced."

No amount of words will ever be enough or fully worthy in praising military members for their service in the Vietnam War, nor any honor truly befitting their sacrifice, Obama said.

However, "it is never too late to pay tribute to the men and women who answered the call of duty with courage and valor," he said, adding it's also important to "renew our commitment to the fullest possible accounting for those who have not returned."

Obama urged all Americans to provide "our Vietnam veterans, their families, and all who have served the fullest respect and support of a grateful nation."

HHS Awards Funds To Expand Long-Term Care. American Medical News "The Dept. of Health and Human Services on May 31 made available $25 million in health reform funding to help states strengthen and expand access to home- and community-based long-term-care services. The initiative, the Aging and Disability Resource Center Program, is established through a partnership between the Administration for Community Living, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services," and Veterans Affairs' Veterans Health Administration. The "program will help state agencies administer and better coordinate state and federal long-term-care programs for older adults, disabled veterans and other people with disabilities."

Beware...scam letter!

A letter is making the rounds purporting to be from DFAS asking military member's fiancées to register in "our system" entitling them to benefits in the event of the member's death. All for only a $350 fee. Bottom line, save your money. It's not true, it's not a DFAS letter, it's a scam. Please let your fellow Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Marines and families know the score. The letter is a typical scam phishers use to try and obtain your personal information and, in this case, money.

DFAS policy: we will not send you unsolicited email messages with attachments (especially as poorly written as this!) or letters asking you to send money to pay for some benefit that sounds too good to be true. Customers who receive messages they believe to be attempts to get their personal information should take precautions against criminals wishing to gain access to their computers or those hoping to fool them into providing valuable personal information. Read our agency email policy that has been developed to protect customer privacy.

ATTENTION MARINE CORPS LEAGUE MEMBERS

This is an interesting network. If you run across someone claiming to be a "hero" it's a good place to go to and see if they are listed in the "wannabe" section. There are thousands of these phonies out there so if in doubt get their claimed information and check 'em out; especially if they want to become members of the MCL!
